

City Council Appoints Career Educator

Dr. Joann Linville's appointment to the Wilsonville City Council is a bit unconventional in that she wasn't initially considering applying for the position when it opened.

"I was approached by leadership in Charbonneau to consider running," Linville said. "My knee-jerk reaction was 'no, this isn't something for me,' but what changed my mind more than anything was the considerable amount of support from my neighbors."

Once she made the decision, though, Linville went all-in. She outlasted nine other candidates to earn the appointment, and was sworn in on Sept. 16.

"I was impressed with the information and the knowledge that Joann had, but I was also very impressed with the times she talked about listening and continuing to learn," said Council President Kristin Akervall as the Council deliberated before unanimously approving Linville's appointment.

Linville's sharp listening skills were honed during a career that began in nursing, and included more than three decades as a senior administrator and faculty member at several community colleges.

"When people have concerns or questions, the best approach is to ask them to talk about their issue."

Just listen," she said. "You cannot respond to peoples' concerns until you know what they are."

Linville also revealed a quick wit when asked during her interview how she might help combat Wilsonville's ever-present traffic problems.

"Outside of using my golf cart..." Linville dead-panned before answering.

"Some people feel like that might break the frame of professionalism, but I don't agree," Linville said. "I take situations and decisions very seriously, but I don't take myself very seriously. I'm not afraid to expose myself in that way."

Good humor should serve Linville well as she enters the political arena for the first time.

"I'm a policy person," she said. "I understand and I like policy. I'm not sure I'm a politician, not sure how much I'll like that part of the job."

Linville's term continues for 16 months, through December 2020. That gives her the better part of a year to decide whether to file as a candidate in the 2020 election.

"There's a positive and a negative side (to appointment)," Linville said. "The positive side is you get an opportunity to see if this is a good fit for both sides. The negative is that it may not be a good fit, and you're precluded from being seriously considered in the future."

Mayor's Message

Citizens Academy is "Building the Bench" of Local Leaders

As we do each fall, the City is now appealing to residents to apply to participate in the annual Wilsonville Citizens Academy.

The program was created by staff at the request of City Manager Bryan Cosgrove soon after he joined the City in 2011. Bryan recognized that developing a formal program to provide some perspective on how local government operates could provide benefits both to the City and to any resident looking to become more involved and connected with Wilsonville.

The City wins because staff and elected officials have an opportunity to meet civic-minded residents who are motivated to participate in leadership roles in the community. Participants often become excited about lending their own expertise to improve City programs, thereby helping to "build the bench" of local community leaders.

Community members benefit by building their social and professional networks and learning in-depth about many of the City's core services. Direct conversations with elected officials and staff provide participants with important context about the work we do to build and maintain this great place we call home.

Participants often become excited about lending their own expertise to improve City programs.

We're pleased with how quickly the Citizens Academy has become a successful method of identifying people who are passionate about the City and eager to become more involved. Notably, City Council President Kristin Akervall and Councilor Ben West were prior participants in the program; both benefited and remained inspired to influence the community in other positive ways.

The Citizens Academy program consists of several evening meetings this winter; participants attend about 20 hours of classroom-style lectures, discussions and other exercises. The program also includes visits to Coffee Creek Correctional Facility and a trip to Salem to meet state legislators, tour the State Capitol and learn how the City advocates for policies that directly improve our community.

The program accepts 25 people, and reserves two of those spots for high-school students with an interest in learning more about local government.

I can't say enough good things about the Citizens Academy program, or the great community members we have gotten to know. If you're interested, apply by Oct. 31 or learn more about the program at ci.wilsonville.or.us/academy.

City Seeks Applicants for 2020 Citizens Academy

The City is recruiting community members to participate in the 2020 Wilsonville Citizens Academy.

The annual public-engagement program features City-hosted meetings and events designed to prepare community members for public service on City boards and commissions or other roles in local government/non-profit agencies. Meetings are scheduled to take place every other Thursday at City Hall between January and April.

"This program is a great way for residents and area employees to become more familiar with municipal government and to explore the many volunteer opportunities that allow people to make a difference in Wilsonville," Mayor Tim Knapp said.

The Citizens Academy offers participants a chance to learn about City programs and operations directly from staff and elected officials, and to work with other civic-minded community members. Optional tours to the Coffee Creek Correctional Facility and the State Capitol are also included.

This free program is limited to 25 participants annually. Applications are accepted through Oct. 31; they are available at the City's website: ci.wilsonville.or.us/Academy.

Linville Appointed to Council

While acknowledging that risk and the position's steep learning curve, Linville speaks confidently about handling the new challenge. She's already quite very familiar with City Hall, having served on the City's Development Review Board Panel A for three years, including two as board chair.

"It is important to me to keep my brain moving and to learn," said Linville, a self-described "perpetual learner" with two post-graduate degrees in education: a Masters from Western Washington (1994), and a Doctorate from the University of Washington (2003).

In 2011, Linville retired from her position as Vice President of Learning Services at Arizona Western College in Yuma, Ariz., to be closer to her family; both daughters and her grandson — "he's been my golf partner for years" — live in the Portland metro area.

"I knew that I didn't want to live in Portland," she

Be Kind ... and Don't Leave Your Dog's Waste Behind!

Wilsonville is proud to be a dog-friendly community. The City happily invites its four-legged friends to enjoy frolicking outdoors in parks and other public places and even provides dogs their own park to roam off-leash ... and that facility is about to become even nicer (see page 4).

Alas, the City is less generous to owners who fail to clean up after their dogs. Wilsonville Code section 3.000(30) states: a dog owner or owner's designee is required to remove and properly dispose of any and all feces excreted by said dog or dogs in all city parks.

The City relies on park visitors to clean up after their dogs; we even provide multiple pet cleanup bag stations and trash cans in each park to make compliance easy.

Outside of the City parks, pet owners are asked to be just as diligent about clean-up. Wilsonville Code Section 10.240(2) states: it is unlawful for a dog owner to fail to pick up fecal excrement deposited by the dog owner's dog on public property. Private properties, such as apartments and condominium communities typically have similar rules.

Offenders can be cited, though enforcement of these rules is nearly impossible. The City relies on residents to do the right thing to keep Wilsonville safe and clean, and here are just a few reasons why.

- Ignore that misconception that dog waste is a natural fertilizer. Those piles will ruin grass, not help it grow.

- It carries disease and parasites. Dog waste is full of E. coli, salmonella and other stuff you don't want anyone ingesting, and the residue can remain in grass for years.
- As waste is broken down, it can end up in up in the storm water system. Protect the water supply by keeping waste out of storm drains.
- Common Courtesy! Nobody wants the mess — and the stink! — of cleaning up a pair of shoes, a doormat or the floorboard of a car.

Please ... we're asking nicely ... take the extra moment to clean up your dog's mess. Let's work together to keep Wilsonville looking and smelling fresh!

said. "I have family in Donald, so I had made a lot of trips down I-5 and I had a good sense about Charbonneau. I thought it would be a wonderful place for someone single and looking for a community that's safe. It's been a very good fit for me."

In retirement, Linville has remained active professionally, completing multiple assignments as an educational consultant, most recently as Interim Vice President of Instruction at Rogue Community College in Grants Pass, Ore.

In addition to volunteering on the City's DRB, Linville is Vice President of the Charbonneau Women's Golf Association and a volunteer Rules Official for Oregon Golf Association events. She has also served on several committees at the Charbonneau Country Club.

Now, she's embracing yet another opportunity to listen and learn.

"I'm very thankful for the support I received from Council and I'm humbled to receive a 4-0 vote," she said. "I went from 'no, I'm absolutely not doing this!' to really putting both feet in. I'm excited about the opportunity."

Milestone SMART Ad, In-Studio Interview Encourage New Riders

This summer SMART achieved a new milestone when it created a radio ad in Spanish for popular Hispanic station KWIP (880 AM/103.9 FM).

The project was the brainchild of intern Vanessa Quan, who believed reaching out to the Hispanic community could help increase ridership. Another intern, Marcco Higham, wrote and delivered the 30-second spot.

Pleased with SMART's ad, KWIP invited SMART to join a live interview with Claudia Cruz Morales' "Remate Al Aire" show. Transit Dispatcher Pedro "Pete" Pedron spent 30 minutes on the airwaves extolling SMART services.

"I was nervous at first," Pedron said. "What if she asks me something I don't know?"

Pedron shared details of its 3X route, which provides mid-day service between Wilsonville and Canby in partnership with Canby Area Transit (CAT). The service began a year ago, but ridership has fallen short of expectations.

SMART hopes reaching out to the underserved Hispanic community and providing listeners with promotional incentives — a week of free rides was provided Pete Patron (foreground) and Marcco Higham go on the air at KWIP studios in Dallas, Ore., to discuss SMART services.

Aug. 26-30 — makes more people aware of this and other services, increasing ridership and providing convenient transport to new passengers.

SMART leadership credits Quan and Higham for identifying a new outreach strategy to reach Spanish speakers, supporting the agency's desire to incorporate equity and inclusion with each program. Wilsonville's Hispanic population is about 13% of the population.

"No matter who you are, or where you're from, we want to help you get to where you're going as quickly and safely as possible," Transit Director Dwight Brashear said.

Lake Oswego to Host Free Diversity and Inclusion Workshop on Oct. 19

The neighboring cities of Lake Oswego, West Linn, Wilsonville, Tigard, and Tualatin share commonalities and a network of partnerships among city employees, police departments, school districts, community organizations and elected officials.

With each city striving to address ever-increasing issues of equity and inclusion, agencies from each jurisdiction are collaborating to provide the area's first Multi-City Equity Summit on Saturday, Oct. 19.

This day-long event, 8 am to 4 pm, aims to educate citizen and business leaders, government and police representatives, school teachers and administrators, and residents of all ages who are concerned about advancing diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI).

This summit addresses issues related to racism, discrimination and exclusion with presentations, facilitated dialogs and action plan development at breakout sessions throughout the day, including:

- Looking at Oregon history through a DEI lens (Educational)
- Unconscious bias — we all have it and need to learn to recognize it (Educational)

What's New at SMART? Program Enhancements Now in Place

Last month, South Metro Area Regional Transit (SMART) implemented several highly-anticipated service improvements funded by the new State-wide Transportation Improvement Fund.

SMART recently developed a Programs Enhancement Strategy in anticipation of the new funding, which has been adopted as part of the City's Transit Master Plan.

Among the most anticipated enhancements now in effect:

- Added mid-morning and mid-day service on Route 1X to Salem, allowing customers to travel during the day in addition to commuter hour service.
- Free service on Route 2X to Tualatin with 30-minute service throughout the day. Service will terminate at Tualatin Park & Ride with ample connections to TriMet buses for easy access to Tigard and Downtown Portland.

- Increased frequency of Route 4 Saturday service. This service change allows SMART customers to explore Wilsonville's shops, parks, library, movie theater and other destinations throughout town; buses arrive every 30 minutes.

Other enhancements include eight new trips on Route 7 to Villebois to meet all WES trains, a revised Route 7 that uses the Barber Bridge to lessen travel times and adds stops in Villebois to increase accessibility and continuation of Route 3X mid-day service to Canby.

Learn more about these and other enhancements online at ridesmart.com.

Memorial Park Dog Run Being Relocated in Spring

Wilsonville’s population of pooches will soon have a new off-leash roaming area at Memorial Park. The City’s existing dog park is being relocated to accommodate the eventual placement of a BMX pump track for cycling, as illustrated in the Memorial Master Plan.

“The master plan locates the bike track and a new skate park within the area of the park that already includes other active amenities like disc golf and field sports,” said Mike McCarty, Parks & Recreation Director.

Dogs — and owners, too! — are getting a new dedicated off-leash area in the northeast portion of the park, near the new community garden. The 1.5-acre park features separate areas for large and small dogs. The park is served by a new 30-spot paved parking lot, accessible from Wilsonville Road via Kolbe Lane.

“It’s very similar in size to the existing park; the small dog area may be a little bigger.” McCarty said. “More importantly, we are now able to provide a few new amenities that aren’t in place at the existing site, including new restrooms and a dog-washing station.”

Installation of the fencing is underway, and expected to be completed by the end of the year. The park isn’t expected to open until spring, after restrooms and other amenities are at or near completion.

The timeline for construction of the pump track has not yet been determined, but one important ingredient is already in place.

“People have asked about the dirt pile,” McCarty said. “The dirt moved for construction of the parking lot is being repurposed and used during construction of the bike course.”

POLICE CHIEF'S CORNER

Students Are in Good Hands with New School Resource Officer

Our service to this great community includes providing a School Resource Officer (SRO), in partnership with the City and the West Linn-Wilsonville School District.

For the past couple of years, Officer Jason Dolan has diligently worked this job and I am personally grateful for his work in this role. While frequent, I never got tired of hearing the positive feedback from the school staff about the quality of his work and attitude. Thank you, Jason, and best wishes on your next adventurous assignment!

Police Chief Rob Wurpes

She inherits a very challenging and important role that includes supervision of three primary schools, three middle schools, Wilsonville High School and Arts & Technology High School. Our SRO has many duties including, but not limited to:

- Investigating criminal incidents on school grounds
- Investigating threats made to the school and/or students
- Assisting school counselors and staff with student and parent counseling on school- and home-related incidents
- Speaking to students at the request of teachers on various subjects
- Resolving parking issues at the high school
- Enforcing traffic laws within school zones
- Assisting patrol with follow up investigations involving students and juveniles in Wilsonville schools
- Supporting the Clackamas County Juvenile Department to assist with action planning
- Working with our Juvenile Probation and Juvenile Counselors
- Working closely with Health Housing and Human Services (H3S)
- Aiding district administrators and in the development of school safety plans
- Addressing questions and concerns from students, teachers, parents and administrators during school hours.
- Attending major school events (home sporting events, dances, etc.)

As you can see, that is not a short list! The safety of students is one of our primary concerns, and I am confident our schools are in good hands with Officer McClusky.

Robert Wurpes, Chief of Police

Deputy Stephanie McClusky has been selected as our new SRO. We are all very excited to have her back in Wilsonville to take on this new challenge; she has previously worked as a patrol officer in our community.

Stephanie has been with the Sheriff's Office for 5 years, and has also spent time in the city of Happy Valley. She has a bachelor's degree from Oregon State University with an emphasis on juvenile studies. In her time off, she enjoys road trips, hiking, fishing and reading.

Practice Earthquake Preparedness During Annual Great Oregon ShakeOut

With a major earthquake looming as an inevitable part of our future, the City of Wilsonville and other preparedness advocates seek to limit potentially catastrophic consequences. Planning ahead can help improve our lives after a life-altering event.

With this in mind, the City is one of many local municipalities participating in the Great Oregon

ShakeOut, an earthquake drill and preparedness event scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 19 at 10:19 am.

When initial shaking begins, it's impossible to know an earthquake's intensity, so always immediately Drop, Cover, and Hold On! Typically, this reduces your chance of injury.

DROP where you are, onto your hands and knees. This position protects you from being knocked down and also allows you to stay low and crawl to shelter if nearby.

COVER your head and neck with one arm and hand

-If a sturdy table or desk is nearby, crawl underneath it for shelter

-If no shelter is nearby, crawl next to an interior wall (away from windows)

-Stay on your knees; bend over to protect vital organs

HOLD ON until the shaking stops.

-Under shelter: hold on to it with one hand; be ready to move with your shelter if it shifts

-No shelter: hold on to your head and neck with both arms and hands.

Do not move to another location or outside. Earthquakes occur without warning and may be violent enough to prevent running or crawling. People are more likely to be injured if moving around during strong shaking.

Because you never know if the initial jolt of an earthquake is the start of 'the big one,' always Drop, Cover, and Hold On! Learn more at ShakeOut.org/Oregon.

Practice a Home Fire Escape Plan: Map an Escape Route, Practice Getting Out Safely

October is Fire Prevention Month. Tualatin Valley Fire & Rescue encourages homeowners to create and practice a home fire escape plan.

The Oregon Office of State Fire Marshal campaign, "Not Every Hero Wears a Cape — Plan and Practice Your Escape," focuses on the importance of knowing what to do in the event of a fire.

The 3,122 residential structure fires in Oregon in 2018 resulted in 30 deaths, 125 civilian injuries, and $80 million in property and content loss. The two most common causes were cooking and heating.

The majority of people who die in a fire succumb to heat and smoke inhalation, not flames. Smoke alarms greatly reduce fire fatalities; those who are deaf or hard of hearing can install alarms that use strobe lights and/or vibration.

Most fatal fires happen at night when people are sleeping. Working smoke alarms are designed to activate early to help ensure that you and your family have time to safely escape from your home. Dark, deadly smoke that can fill a home in minutes.

To plan a residential fire escape, we recommend drawing a map of your home and marking two exits from each room as well as a path to your designated safe meeting place outside each exit. One of those exits could be a window.

Once you have an escape map, have a home fire drill; practice using different ways out. We recommend closing doors behind you as you leave to help slow the spread of smoke, heat, and fire. It's important to teach children how to escape on their own in case you can't help them. Families with infants, toddlers, and loved ones with mobility needs should adapt a plan that ensures everyone gets out safely.

Once outside, remain outside, and call 911. Never go back inside a burning building for anything.

For additional tips and tools to create a fire escape plan, visit tvfr.com.

"Why do we have only one grocery store in a town this size?" - Sandra

In 2017, Safeway acquired the Lamb's Thriftway store at Wilsonville Town Center. Safeway's parent company, Albertsons Companies, Inc., opted at that time to close the Albertsons in Old Town, leaving Wilsonville with just one traditional "grocery-only" store ... but it's hardly the only place in town to buy groceries. Residents can find a complete grocery store within the Fred Meyer in Old Town. On the north end of town, groceries are available at Target and Costco, both located at Argyle Square.

The now-vacant Albertsons store, at 30299 SW Boones Ferry Rd., remains under lease to Albertsons Companies, Inc., thru 2028.

City Engineering staff recently used Community Enhancement funding to complete the Willamette Way/Graham Oaks Pedestrian Improvement project. New proposals are being sought for consideration during the upcoming funding cycle.

Local Funding Available for Community Enhancement Projects

Do you need funding to complete a project that could enhance Wilsonville’s appearance or improve the city’s environmental quality?

An agreement with Metro provides funding to cities that host solid-waste transfer facilities, like the Willamette Resources, Inc., (WRI) transfer facility operated by Republic Services here in Wilsonville.

In effect, the City is compensated for every ton of wet waste processed locally, and those funds are used to improve the community.

The Wilsonville-Metro Community Enhancement Program considers proposals annually, and a committee allocates funding for those projects that best “rehabilitate and enhance the area within the City limits.”

Often, these projects are nominated by City staff and board members. A few recent examples:

- The City’s Willamette Way/Graham Oaks Pedestrian Improvement project. Community Enhancement funds helped the City Engineering staff make the new crosswalk and rectangular rapid flashing beacon (RRFB) possible.
- The Backyard Habitat Rehabilitation program used Community Enhancement funds to complete eight site assessments at newly enrolled sites; one property received the Backyard Habitat Certification.
- A Street Tree Infill program, funded by the program during last year’s cycle, will plant up to 250 trees in residential neighborhoods. The program was developed by the City’s Public Works department in collaboration with non-profit Friends of Trees.

The City is seeking to increase the number of project nominations originated by community members. Citizens are encouraged to share ideas with the City or to apply directly for funding of projects that would provide a community benefit and meet at least one of these program goals:

- Improve the appearance or environmental quality of the community.
- Reduce the amount or toxicity of waste.
- Increase reuse and recycling opportunities.
- Result in rehabilitation or upgrade of real or personal property owned or operated by a nonprofit organization.
- Result in the preservation or enhancement of wildlife, riparian zones, wetlands, forest lands and marine areas, and/or improve the public awareness and the opportunities to enjoy them.
- Result in improvement to, or an increase in, recreational areas and programs.
- Result in improvement in safety.
- Benefit youth, seniors, low income persons or underserved populations

Before the nomination period opens in December, individuals and non-profit groups are invited and encouraged to bring their ideas to the program administrator for discussion and assistance in pursuing Community Enhancement funding.

To learn more about the Community Enhancement Program or to discuss a potential project, contact program administrator Zoe Monahan, Assistant to the City Manager, at monahan@ci.wilsonville.or.us or visit ci.wilsonville.or.us/bc-mce.

City Council Seeks Feedback on Possible Waste/Recycling Service Enhancements

Residential food scrap collection is one of several new services being considered by City Council.

The Wilsonville City Council is weighing a number of new collection services to consider including in the City’s agreement with Republic Services, the community’s garbage and recycling franchised hauler.

Visit LetsTalkWilsonville.com before Oct. 7 to offer feedback on the offerings listed below by ranking them in your personal order of preference; you can also recommend other service improvement. Aggregate data is being presented to City Council before a decision is made upon which service(s) to pursue.

Potential new services include:

- Residential Food Waste Program: allow kitchen food scraps to be collected with yard debris
- Free Bulky Waste Pick-up for ADA/Senior Citizens: Wilsonville residents who have a disability or are older would have home pick-up of large/bulky waste items at no charge
- Fluorescent Tubes Collection/Recycling: Republic Services would provide pre-paid shipping containers for specific types of fluorescent tubes for recycling by businesses
- Styrofoam Collection/Recycling: Republic Services would set up a Styrofoam collection station for residents and commercial/industrial customers.
- Wood Pallet Collection/Recycling: Republic Services would set up a wood-pallets collection station for commercial/industrial customers.

The addition of new services would not require rate adjustments. Any new collections would be designed to offset an increase in Republic Services profit margin that lands above the range established in the existing franchise agreement, which was signed in 2018.

City Seeks Two Volunteers for Development Review Board

The City is accepting applicants who are interested in serving a two-year term on the City’s Development Review Board (DRB).

The DRB consists of two five-person panels that are empowered to review and take quasi-judicial action on land-use applications. Every application is assigned to one of the two DRB panels, which then conducts a hearing and renders decisions on all aspects of the application.

To a large degree, the decisions of the DRB determine how the city looks. DRB decisions are usually binding, but may be appealed to the City Council.

Applications for two “Panel A” vacancies are being accepted until Monday, Oct. 14, at 5 pm. Appointments are made by Mayor Tim Knapp and confirmed by a vote of City Council. Panel A typically meets on the second Monday of each month at 6:30 pm.

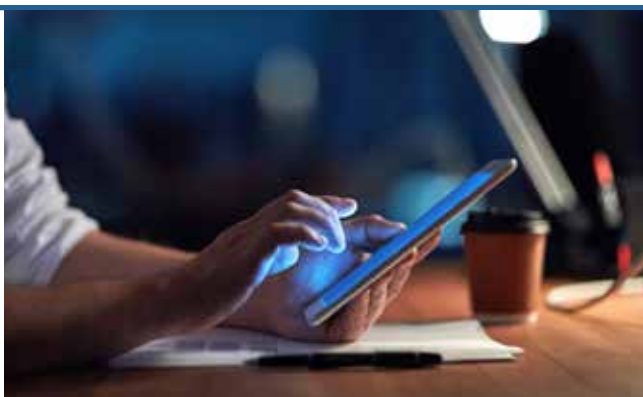

For more information, or to apply, visit ci.wilsonville.or.us/drb_apply.

“Make a Splash!” Program Offers Free Children’s Rain Boots to Clackamas County Families in Need

In September, the Early Learning Hub of Clackamas County launched “Make a Splash!”, a new program to provide free Oaki rain boots to children ages 6 and younger who qualify for income assistance programs.

The program is designed to provide a way for all children and their families to explore, have fun, learn, and play.

“Playing outside rain or shine helps children develop their imaginations, fine and gross motor skills, scientific thinking, and problem solving,” said Chelsea Hamilton, Early Learning Program Planner for Clackamas County’s Children, Family & Community Connections Division.

Free boots are available through Oct. 25, or while supplies last, to Clackamas County families with children ages 6 and younger that qualify for any income-assistance program. Qualifying programs include:

- Oregon Trail card
- OHP/CHIP
- Section 8
- WIC - eWIC card
- Free/reduced school lunch
- TANF (Temporary Assistance for Needy Families)
- Head Start

The Early Learning Hub of Clackamas County is an organized group of people supporting children, prenatally through six years and their families. There are 16 Early Learning Hubs in Oregon that collaborate with early childhood programs to translate the research on early development into result-oriented interventions and programs.

One of the Hub goals is for children to be supported to enter school ready to succeed, and “Make a Splash” is one of many programs that offer children that opportunity.

CCC-Wilsonville Campus Gallery Exhibit: “In the Blink of an Eye”

Until Dec. 6, the gallery at the Clackamas Community College’s campus in Wilsonville features an exhibit of paintings from two artists, Sam Marroquin and David Cordes, entitled “Blink of an Eye.”

Marroquin says her art is inspired by a quest for truth.

“Investigating current and historic events, I am always aware and processing what is going on around us,” she said. “Images and ideas which are avoided by popular culture and media are the source for my

Cordes, an organic chemistry professor, enjoys exploring the intersection of art and science.

“I like to work systematically, creating sets of paintings that examine particular themes and topics in the history of chemistry and technology,” he said.

Visit the gallery Monday-Friday, 7am-5pm, or on occasional Saturday hours. CCC-Wilsonville is located at 29353 SW Town Center Loop East, Wilsonville.

For more information, contact Joyce Gabriel at 503-594-0950; joyceg@clackamas.edu.

Wilsonville STAGE Presents “Sylvia”; Nine Shows Set, Oct. 25-Nov. 10, at Charbonneau, Wilsonville Library

Anyone who has owned a dog knows how they can turn your life upside down.

In “Sylvia,” a new comedy presented by Wilsonville STAGE, a middle-aged New Yorker finds this out when he comes across a large dog in the park, identified only by a heart-shaped dog tag that reads “Sylvia.”

Wilsonville STAGE

Taking a fancy to Sylvia, with no owner in sight, Greg decides she’d be a great addition to the family. His wife, Kate, has a different opinion.

Sylvia becomes a source of tension in the couple’s 22-year marriage. As clueless, doting Greg becomes more attached to Sylvia, Kate grows pettier and becomes competitive with the dog.

“Anyone who has ever owned a pet will love how richly and humorously the author has created Sylvia, the titular canine,” said Aaron Morrow, the show’s guest director, “and anyone that has been in a loving relationship will connect with the realness of Kate and Greg’s wit and relationship.”

Directing A.R. Gurney’s critically-acclaimed comedy has been a bucket list item of Morrow’s since playing Greg a few years ago at Gallery Theater in McMinnville.

“Sylvia has a little something for everyone to connect with,” Morrow said. “It is a guaranteed opportunity to laugh, and to maybe shed a tear or two.”

Sylvia is coming to Wilsonville, Oct. 25-Nov. 10, for nine shows; four at Charbonneau Country Club (Oct. 25-27) and five at the Wilsonville Library (Nov. 2-10).

To purchase tickets, and read a full synopsis, go to wilsonvillestage.org. Additional information is provided at facebook.com/WilsonvilleSTAGE.org.
